Dear Sadiq Khan,

We are the School Council and the Green Team from St Mary's Bryanston Square Primary School near the Marylebone Road in Westminster.

We are really worried that there are lots of poisons in the air near our school, and that we now know we have the highest air pollution of any other school in the whole of London. We have learned that we have a level of NO₂ of 67.0, and this is the highest level for all schools- no other school in London is as high. This air pollution is caused by over 4000 vehicles passing along the Marylebone Road which is in sight of our school- every hour!

We love to play outside in our lovely school playground but we are really worried about what we are breathing in, and don't want poison in our lungs.

We hope you can help to solve this problem because we have been good at Walking to School and getting the parents to leave their cars at home, but it would be good to let our families know how we can all help make this better. We are happy to help you if you think we can. We know you are busy but if you would like to come and visit us, we can talk about this sad and dangerous issue to try and reduce this pollution level for all the children in our school and the nearby community.

You could come for tea with the Head Teacher as well and we would all make you feel very welcome.

Thank you very much.
